- Hook Details
- Usage

The theme registers various WordPress theme features. Developers can override this using a filter hook in a child-theme.

Hook Details

- Hook Type: Filter Hook
- Hook Name: `hello_elementor_add_theme_support`
- Default Value: `true`

The hook controls whether the theme should register various theme features. By default it's set to `true`, however developers can prevent the theme from registering various theme features.

Usage

To prevent the theme from registering various theme features, use the following hook in a child-theme `functions.php` file:

add_filter( 'hello_elementor_add_theme_support', '__return_false' );

To register custom theme features, use the WordPress native add_theme_support() function as follows:

add_theme_support( 'title-tag' );
add_theme_support( 'post-thumbnails' );
