Email Settings

- Configuring all notifications
- Issue notifications
- Watching repositories

By default, Forgejo will send notifications to your registered email addresses.

This section only concerns your Forgejo account and will not affect the commits you make outside the website. If you don't know how to configure your name and email in Git, take a look at the "Configuring Git" man page.

Configuring all notifications

To change your notification preferences, go to your Account Settings or manually navigate to the settings page.

You can access it by clicking on the menu button “Profile and Settings...” in the top-right corner of Forgejo. From this dropdown, click on Settings, then click on the Account tab.

In the section “Manage Email Addresses”, you can select one of the following options from the drop-down menu for each email address that you have registered with Forgejo:

Option	Effect
Enable Email Notifications	Enables all notifications, except about your own actions (default setting)
And Your Own Notifications	Enables all notifications, including notifications about your own actions
Only Email on Mention	Forgejo will only send an email to this address if your username is mentioned in an issue or a comment
Disable Email Notifications	Forgejo will not send any emails to this address

When you're finished, press the button “Set Email Preference” to confirm your selection.

> [!note] Note Disabling email notifications doesn't mean that you'll stop receiving important messages from the Forgejo organization.

Issue notifications

As soon as you make a comment on an issue, you automatically subscribe to it. Unless you have disabled email notifications for all your email addresses, you will get an email for every change and comment on that issue.

You can check and modify your issue subscription status under the “Notifications” section on the menu on the right side of the issue screen.

Watching repositories

When you watch a repository (by clicking on the “Watch” button in a repository), you will receive emails for every change (creation of issues, pull requests, comments, etc.) done in this repository.

To stop watching a repository, simply click on “Unwatch” in a repository.

To list all of your watched repositories, click on `/notifications/watching`. Alternatively, you can click the menu button “Profile and Settings...” in the top-right corner of Forgejo and click on "Subscriptions" in the dropdown.
