The WP-CLI Contributor Badge recognizes individuals who have made meaningful contributions to the WP-CLI project. This badge is displayed on a contributor's WordPress.org profile and highlights their involvement in maintaining and improving WP-CLI.

Eligibility criteria

You may be eligible for the WP-CLI badge if you have made consistent and valuable contributions, including but not limited to:

- Submitting or reviewing pull requests
- Reporting bugs or helping triage issues
- Significantly improving documentation
- Participating in WP-CLI Hack Days or Contributor Days
- Supporting users in WP-CLI-related discussions

There is no strict minimum requirement. Contributions are evaluated based on quality, impact, and consistency.

Badge assignment process

WP-CLI maintainers regularly review contributor activity across all WP-CLI repositories, typically after every release, and award badges to eligible contributors.

Note: Please do not ping maintainers about the badges or try to request it yourself.
